

Highlights

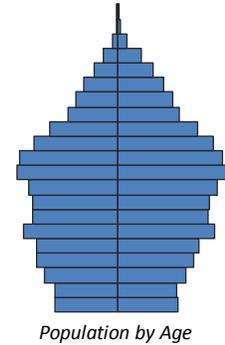

Population Growth: Population in Glendale declined by 2% over the past decade to 192,000, while Los Angeles County grew by 3% and California by 10%. The sharpest decline occurred among young people, whose number decreased by 8,000 (-17%).

Diversity: Glendale is predominantly white, non-Hispanic and became more so over the past decade, in contrast to statewide trends. The white, non-Hispanic share of the population increased from 54% to 62%, the Hispanic share declined from 20% to 17%, and the Asian share remained constant at 16%.

Age Structure: Glendale is older than California as a whole, and the age structure shifted upward over the past decade. The median age increased from 38 to 41, much higher than the state median of 35 years old. Further, the share of population age 65+ increased from 14% to 16%, compared with 11% statewide.

Education: Educational attainment is higher in Glendale than in the state overall, with 37% of adults having Bachelor’s degrees or higher, compared with 30% in the state as a whole. Here, 16% of adults have not completed high school, compared with 20% of adults statewide.

Foreign Born: The share of foreign-born individuals in Glendale, 54%, is twice the share statewide. The foreign-born population differs from the state in terms of region of origin as well: 76% of immigrants are from Asia, while only 16% are from Latin America. In addition, 23% of households are linguistically isolated, compared with 10% in the state as a whole.

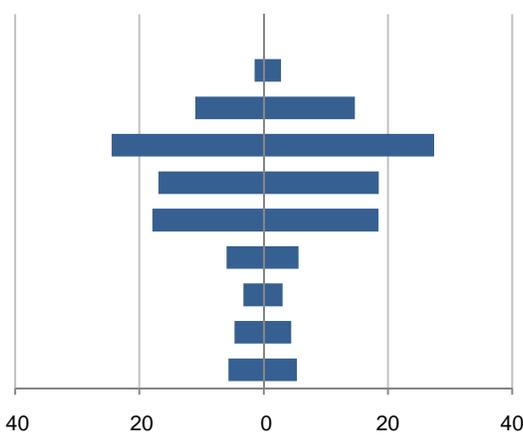

Population by Age

This demographic profile is part of a series of library jurisdiction profiles prepared for the California State Library by the Stanford Center on Longevity. The project, "Understanding California's Shifting Demographics," was supported in whole by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, administered in California by the State Librarian. The opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the position or policy of the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services or the California State Library, and no official endorsement by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services or the California State Library should be inferred.
